“From creating a safe and productive environment in which to live, work, play or even heal, to creating a beautiful surrounding to enrich and inspire the inhabitants — we have been called to this profession.”

A LETTER FROM OUR PRESIDENT

Why are we here? Why do we exist? That is one of the oldest philosophical questions of all time! And I won't pretend that I have THE answer. But I know why ASID is here — because DESIGN IMPACTS LIFE! I think we can sometimes forget the 'why' in the middle of dealing with the myriad of details of our day to day job. And it's nice to take a moment and remind ourselves why we do what we do.

From creating a safe and productive environment in which to live, work, play or even heal, to creating a beautiful surrounding to enrich and inspire the inhabitants — we have been called to this profession. We may have had a different idea of what our careers would look like while we were in school, and certainly those of us who have been in the profession for more than twenty years have seen many changes we couldn't foresee. Yet, here we are, still dedicated to bringing the best interior design we can to our clients, and to the world. We believe that “Design Impacts Life.” We believe that creating the right space will make a difference to the people who inhabit it.

And we have seen our profession move from a craft-based profession to a problem-solving profession. Design literally has come to mean to problem solve.

We know that the US economy is a strong, bright spot in the world. We have recovered from the 2008 recession. But, did you know that Interior Design with $8.6 billion in sales is considered an economic marker? And the third largest driver of the global economy are folks 55 and older. That means we each need to own Universal Design Principles in order to allow those folks to be able to live in their homes as long as they want.

And healthcare is the single largest driver of our national debt. Just think, if we could prevent accidents, or falls, in our homes we could impact those numbers in a serious way! We spend 90% of our time indoors, in environments WE are creating. And we spend 70% of our time sitting, which in turns shuts down our metabolism. By 2030, it is projected that 51% of the population will be obese. DESIGN CAN PROMOTE HEALTHY PEOPLE. The average amount of sleep per person is six hours and twenty-five minutes. We know that the lights on our devices which are often blue send signals to our brains that awake us. A change in design could make a difference!

We could make a business case here if we thought of health as an economic strategy in the workplace as well as the home. The WELL building and home should be the new standard. DESIGN IMPACTS LIFE!

“We are one of the most outstanding chapters in the country and it is due to our many dedicated members who give generously of their time and support to make it so.”

A LETTER FROM OUR PRESIDENT-ELECT

Hi Everyone,

Before I get started on my topic for this letter, let me say how honored I am to have been elected President-Elect of ASID MN. I look forward to serving with such a great group of people and I am dedicated to the continued success of our chapter.

Volunteering is an important part of the success of our chapter. We are one of the most outstanding chapters in the country and it is due to our many dedicated members who give generously of their time and support to make it so. Our chapter volunteers are experienced professionals who have been volunteering for many years, sometimes on more than one committee, as well as younger practitioners and Industry Partners who are just getting started in their careers. But we need more. If you are a student or an emerging professional who graduated within the last 7 years, we'd love to see you get involved. If you are a long-time member who hasn't been involved for awhile or if you have never volunteered, I urge you to consider it.

Volunteering on a committee is an excellent networking opportunity for practitioners and Industry Partners alike. As a student it's a great way to meet a future boss. As a practitioner, it's a great way to build your network of suppliers. As an Industry Partner it's a great way to meet customers. And it's fun! Over the many years that I have served on various chapter committees, I've made many friends I can rely on to share information and provide support. So please consider giving a bit of your time to get involved. It can be on a committee that meets once a month, requiring 3 hours on average, or as a one-time volunteer for events like the Sample Sale.

2016 Fall Sample Sale

By Bonnie Birnbaum, ASID

The Fall Sample Sale once again provided a significant source of financial support for our chapter.

This year there was a new approach, offering a two-day sale instead of the previous three-day sale format. Overall, everyone was pleased with the outcome. This sale is the only opportunity for consumers to get luxury home furnishings at extremely discounted prices. Visitors took advantage of 75% discounts on high-end product. For example, a rug sold that had a retail price of $5,865.00 for $1,350.00. Other products that were selling at deep discounts were sofas, étagères, cabinets, etc.

2016 saw an increase in the sale of larger items. The designer marketplace saw growth in designers featuring their merchandise. This opportunity is very helpful for designers who want to reduce any inventory that they have. As a result there were more participating vendors than in years prior — over 40.

A new marketing campaign was implemented this year allowing the information about the Fall Sample Sale to reach thousands of people. As a result of this effort, over 900 people came to IMS for the sale. Please mark your calendar for the Fall 2017 Sample Sale. • D •

Every Vote Counts

By Christine Frisk, ASID

Voting — something that is a right and a privilege in the United States. We learn about voting from our family, friends, peers and mentors. We learn that it is powerful and important in determining an election. We learn that we must not take for granted this tool that gives each one of us a voice.

My parents have taught me a great deal about voting, mostly through their example. Whether for various boards such as school, church or other non-profits, and all city, county, state or national elections, my parents invest hours to learn about the various candidates. They digest information from books, newspapers, magazines, and the internet. Often, in smaller elections, they personally know the individuals from their community. I can't remember an election, large or small, where my parents missed the chance to cast their vote.

Our local ASID Board, along with most boards, post open board seats as single slate, meaning only one person is put forward in each of the open positions. The vetting for the candidates happens at a committee level prior to them being presented to the membership. When the ballot is sent out to members, there is a brief description about each of the candidates and the opportunity to cast a 'yes' or 'no' vote. The important message here: You still possess the power to sway the results. If more 'no' votes are cast than 'yes' votes, the candidate will not be moved forward.

I encourage you to take special interest in the candidates that will be presented in our next chapter election. We will be nominating individuals for President Elect, Financial Director and Communications Director. If elected, they will serve October 2017 – September 2019. As a member of ASID, voting is one of the ways you have a voice, and yet historically, we only receive ballots from 12-15% of our membership. While I am motivated by the amazing design, research and service coming from our community, we must remain engaged to grow and impact lives. Your voice — your VOTE — is needed to guide ASID into the future. • D •

Inspiring the Next Generation of Designers: Student Affairs Day 2016

By Katie Lewis, Allied ASID

“The event was really great and I learned so much!”

“I like hearing how a showroom and a designer work together.”

These are just a sampling of the feedback comments received from students who attended the ASID Student Affairs Day event held on Friday, October 14 at IMS, who sponsored the event. The Woven Arts Showroom provided a sumptuous backdrop for the ASID event targeted at design students throughout our local ASID Chapter.

To kick off the event, attendees were warmly welcomed by our past and present ASID presidents, Christine Frisk and Lola Watson, respectively.

A highlight of the day’s event included a panel of local designer icons featuring Charlie Flynn (Francis King), Lucy Penfield (Lucy Interior Design), Nancy Nelsen-Flom (INTERSOURCE, Inc.), Bruce Kading (Bruce Kading Interior Design) and finally, Letitia Little (Letitia Little Interior Design). The panel shared their personal and profession journey within the design industry and then opened up to questions from the students.

Next on the agenda were the tours of some remarkable showrooms, which included Cambria, RLH Studio and Tapis Décor. To top off the day’s event, the students were then treated to a tour at First & First, led by Peter Remes and ended with a walk through the iSpace showroom.

This day was made possible thanks to our very generous sponsors: IMS, INTERSOURCE, Inc., Francis King, Miller Rossum, Martha O’Hara, HOM, Signature Designer Services, and Express Window Fashions.

“It was a fast paced day but provided very useful advice and valuable experiences,” as one student attendee put it. Also stating, “It was very organized and friendly!” • D •
